Come along tomorrow to celebrate the launch of two books on "openness" in higher education! From 2pm UK time tomorrow, this room will be open for a discussion with Martin Weller and me. This event promises to be really interesting and to showcase a range of thought on open access.

Martin's book, The Battle for Open was just published by Ubiquity Press while my own Open Access and the Humanities just came out with Cambridge University Press. Both books are available open access, so do have a browse.

We hope you can then join us tomorrow!

(This post originally stated that the webinar would take place on Wednesday the 16th. I have now amended this in the title; the talk took place earlier today, on Tuesday. I'm very sorry for any confusion this caused.)
